Maria Cordeiro and her brother are passionate about Portuguese wine and use these indigenous grape varieties to provide a superb example of what the terroir has to offer. The farm uses no chemicals at all and resides in the unspoilt Tejo wine region. All the work on the vines is done by hand. Grapes pressed very gently and fermented slowly, at low temperature to provide the best expression of the fruit. Light filtration.

WINE AT HOME SAYS

Great expression of the local grape variety and well structured enough to pair with white meats and tapas or to drink on its own. A wine to discover.
